Syracuse has the highest rate of extreme concentrated poverty among blacks and Hispanics out of 100 largest metropolitan areas in the U.S. This panel will discuss current efforts underway in Central New York to encourage economic development and generate ideas regarding ways that pro bono attorneys can engage in the process.

Topics will include partnering with community organizations to identify community needs and develop strategies to address those needs, the importance of building relationships between private and public sectors, supporting innovative economic development, and helping support business and inclusive job development.
